“ It breaks my heart to see that such a warm and wonderful woman, such as Momma Jean White, has gone on to Heaven. Actually, I'm a little jealous, because she gets to see all of the loved ones whom have gone on before us and she gets to meet Jesus face to face.

She never complained about me marrying her oldest daughter, Kerease, even with our differences in age. She always said, "As long as my daughter is happy, then I'm happy with you two". She would ask us occasionally the same question, "Are you happy" and she knew what the answer would be. She never forgot my birthday which was five days after Christmas and gave me really nice, warm winter jackets. She would say to me, "Tim, this is for your birthday. I just want to make sure that you are warm."

I'm going to miss her "good night" hugs and kisses when we would come to Kingman for a visit and were invited to stay in her home. She loved her coffee in the morning and late at night and I always felt it was an honor to serve her since she would serve us as her guest while in her home.

Momma Jean, I'm going to miss our conversations, teaching you mathematics, your contagious smile and the way you laughed at my jokes, when you finally got it, but most of all, I'm going to miss the warmth of a loving mother-in-law who was always there for me as a loving mother, no matter where you were. I will miss you Momma Jean.

Your loving Son-in-Law, Tim Gillman (spouse of Kerease)

“ i am very saddened about Jean's passing. I had known her for only 3 weeks, we met in a grocery store and she said she would like to be my friend. She told me that she loves to dance and cook and invited me to have a shrimp (cajun?) meal with her very soon. We got along just great the few minutes we chatted and then we e-mailed each other to keep in touch. She struck me as a very energetic, kind and caring person and I will miss her very much. Deleting an e-mail address is always painful, especially when it was just established. Please accept my sincere condolences for your loss. May she rest in peace. Sincerely, Barbara C Jones
