Renowned for her zest for life, Patricia was best described as a woman who lived fully for her family, friends, and dogs. Her infectious love for life was reflected in her favorite pastime – spending time with her beloved dogs. She was an ardent fan of the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Arizona Diamondbacks, her joy for the game rivaling her passion for delicious Burritos from Tito's Tacos in Culver City, CA. Passionate about all she did, Patricia's bright spirit was a beacon of light to all who knew her.
